Why do you want a Newfoundland?

What do you like about the breed?

What did you learn about the breed?

What don't you like about the breed?

The breed's thick coat is medium to long in length and should be coarse. The undercoat is very soft. They will shed very heavily in the spring and not so heavily in the fall. Regular grooming is a must or the coat gets out of control very quickly.

Newfoundlands also drool! There will be drool on the floor, furniture, ceiling, and on every occupant of a household that has a Newf. These are not dogs for neat people!

Care and Responsibility

Please give some thought to the questions below, rather than automatically answering 'yes'. The Newf is a high maintenance dog and while you may sincerely love the breed you may also discover that you do not have the time or the resources to devote to its upkeep. However, if you do, a Newf will more than repay you with a lifetime of loyalty.

1. Are you prepared for the expenses associated with the Newfoundland? Such as: quality food, yearly heartworm check and monthly preventative, rabies vaccinations, stool checks, etc.

Yes No

2. Are you willing to spend half an hour every other day for grooming and even more time during the spring and fall sheds, or to have the dog professionally groomed regularly?

Yes No

3. Are you prepared to deal with the cost (which often is more expensive due the breed's large size) of nonroutine/emergency veterinary care, especially as the dog gets older?

Yes No

4. Are you willing to provide training to solve any behavioral problems?

Yes No

5. What behavior problems would you consider intolerable (ex. Biting, growling, barking, digging, house soiling, etc.)?

References

You MUST provide three names as references, including your current veterinarian, or the name of the veterinarian you are planning to use. You MUST provide the name of your landlord if you rent your home. Other references may include a neighbor, your employer or a friend or relative who owns a Newf or another double-coated giant breed such as a Great Pyrenees or St. Bernard.

If Yes, why:

The Newfoundland is a giant breed dog. Males can be 28-32 inches at the shoulder and weigh from 120 to 180 pounds. Females are generally smaller and range from 24-28 inches at the shoulder and weigh from 100-140 pounds.

Newfs also come in several colors. Most people think of the basic black but they the also come in brown, grey and black and white.

Black and white Newfoundlands are known as Landseers.

Yes No

Are you willing to accept an abused dog who needs extra love an attention?

Yes No

Are you willing to accept a dog with behavioral problems that require special attention?

Yes No

A major downside of the breed is the fact that they can be relatively short lived. The average life span of a Newf is 10 to 12 years. They can have many health problems including hip dysplasia, heart abnormalities, allergies and even cancer.

Veterinary costs are often increased due to their large size. Heartworm medication, anesthesia and antibiotic costs are all dependent on the size of the dog.

Do you have any other preferences?

How long are you willing to wait for a Newf?

Where did you hear about Newfoundland Rescue?

Newfs are a trainable breed. They can excel in obedience, tracking and agility. The NCA offers test that demonstrate the breed's original purposes.

The DD (Draft Dog) title is conveyed upon a dog that has passed a draft test. WD (Water Dogs) and WSD (Water Rescue Dog) titles are given to dogs that have passed the junior and senior divisions of the NCA water test. A versatility title or VN (Versatile Newfoundland) is earned by a dog that has a Confirmation Championship and WRD and DD Titles.
